Green Energy Corridor Phase-III approved

The Union Cabinet approved the Green Energy Corridor Phase-III (GEC-III) scheme on 30 September 2026. The scheme has a total outlay of Rs 1,86,405 crore and aims to strengthen intra-state transmission so that up to 135 GW of renewable power can be evacuated by 2032-33.

Of this outlay, Rs 1,36,378 crore is for intra-state transmission infrastructure. A further Rs 50,000 crore is for battery energy storage, to deploy 50 GWh of Battery Energy Storage Systems.

The Centre will provide Central Financial Assistance (CFA) of Rs 54,082 crore. This support is intended to help offset intra-state transmission charges and so keep electricity costs lower for consumers.

State Transmission Utilities will be the overall implementing agencies. Greenfield transmission projects will be awarded through tariff-based competitive bidding (TBCB), while brownfield upgrades will follow a cost-plus basis. Transmission service providers will take part on a build-own-operate-maintain model.

Tiger re-introduction workshop, Alwar

Union minister Bhupender Yadav inaugurated a National Workshop on "Tiger Re-introduction: Opportunities & Challenges" in Alwar, Rajasthan, on 28 June 2026. The National Tiger Conservation Authority organised the event.

At the workshop, the Road Map on Active Management of Tigers in India was released. It provides a framework for managing tiger populations across reserves and landscapes, identifying potential source and sink areas and recommending ecological management strategies. A booklet on the reintroduction and recovery of tigers in India was released alongside it, together with the Project Cheetah annual report covering September 2024 to December 2025.

Yadav asked participants to identify potential source and sink populations and build science-based long-term management strategies. He stressed keeping ecological corridors open where tiger and elephant ranges overlap, and credited community participation for the successful tiger reintroductions at Panna and Sariska. He said tiger conservation goes beyond protecting a single species.

Citing national progress, Yadav said the number of tiger reserves had risen to 58 over the last decade.

Industry definition and labour codes

A nine-judge Constitution Bench has delivered its verdict on the meaning of "industry" in labour law, reconsidering the 1978 judgment in Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board v. A. Rajappa. That judgment had read the term widely, bringing within it establishments that are not manufacturing units.

The Supreme Court has held that the 1978 test continues to govern pending disputes under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, which has since been repealed. For disputes arising under the Industrial Relations Code, 2020, however, the 1978 definition will not serve as the foundation for interpreting "industry"; the Code's definition must be read on its own text and context. The verdict was pronounced in August 2026.
