Passage 1: Transgender Rights Amendment Bill

Q1. Answer: (B) 2014

Explanation: The NALSA judgment, which upheld self-perceived gender identity and recognised a third gender, was delivered in 2014. The 2019 Act was enacted to build on it. The passage does not give the year.

Q2. Answer: (C) Article 111

Explanation: Article 111 deals with assent to Bills: the President must either give assent or withhold it, and a non-Money Bill may be returned once for reconsideration. Article 110 defines Money Bills.

Q3. Answer: (B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is NOT the correct explanation of (A)

Explanation: Both statements are true, but R states the general procedure under Article 111 and does not explain why assent was given on 30 March 2026. So R is not the reason for A.

Q4. Answer: (C) I-D, II-B, III-C, IV-A

Explanation: Article 21 protects life and personal liberty; Article 32 lets a person move the Supreme Court for enforcement of Part III rights; Article 111 covers assent to Bills; Article 368 sets the amendment procedure.

Q5. Answer: (A) I only

Explanation: Statement I is true: the Act came into force on 10 January 2020 by notification S.O. 135(E). Statement II is false: Parliament passed the Act in 2019, and it received presidential assent on 5 December 2019.

Source: <https://www.indiacode.nic.in/bitstream/123456789/13091/1/A2019-40.pdf>

Q6. Answer: (B) Only two

Explanation: Statements 1 and 2 are correct (Article 368(2) and the Article 111 proviso). Statement 3 is wrong because Article 32 is a Supreme Court power, while High Courts have writ power under Article 226. Statement 4 is wrong because Article 368(2) says the President shall give assent. Two statements are incorrect.

Passage 2: Supreme Court warns against AI-generated fake judgments

Q7. Answer: (D) Article 129

Explanation: Article 129 declares the Supreme Court a Court of Record with power to punish for contempt of itself. The passage does not mention the Article. Article 124 sets the qualifications for Supreme Court judges, as the Article 76 commentary notes, and is not the court-of-record provision.

Source: <https://www.constitutionofindia.net/articles/article-129-supreme-court-to-be-a-court-of-record/>

Q8. Answer: (D) Supreme Court judge

Explanation: Article 76 ties eligibility for the office of Attorney General to the qualifications for appointment as a Supreme Court judge, which are set out in Article 124. The passage names the Attorney General but does not state the eligibility rule.

Source: <https://www.constitutionofindia.net/articles/article-76-attorney-general-for-india/>

Q9. Answer: (A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A)

Explanation: Both statements are true. Article 226 allows writs for 'any other purpose', which is the textual basis for the High Court's wider writ jurisdiction compared with Article 32, so the reason explains the assertion.

Source: <https://www.constitutionofindia.net/articles/article-226/>

Q10. Answer: (C) I-D, II-A, III-B, IV-C

Explanation: Article 32 gives the Supreme Court power to issue writs for enforcement of Part III rights (I-D). Article 76 provides for the Attorney General (II-A). Article 129 makes the Supreme Court a court of record (III-B). Article 215 makes each High Court a court of record (IV-C). Sources: Article 32 bare act, Article 76, Article 129 and Article 215 pages.

Source: <https://www.advocatekhoj.com/library/bareacts/constitutionofindia/32.php>

Q11. Answer: (A) I only

Explanation: Statement I is true: section 4 of the Advocates Act, 1961 provides for the Bar Council of India, as the Act's table of contents shows. Statement II is false: the Supreme Court's court-of-record status is in Article 129, while Article 215 concerns the High Courts.

Source: <https://indiacode.nic.in/bitstream/123456789/1631/4/A1961-25.pdf>

Q12. Answer: (B) Only two

Explanation: Statements 1 and 2 are correct. Statement 3 is incorrect because the Attorney General is provided for under Article 76; Article 124 sets qualifications for Supreme Court judges. Statement 4 is incorrect because Article 226 also covers 'any other purpose'. Two statements are incorrect, so the answer is 'Only two'.

Passage 3: Botswana cheetahs reach Kuno

Q13. Answer: (D) 1972

Explanation: The Wild Life (Protection) Act was enacted in 1972 (Act No. 53 of 1972). The passage does not mention the Act; the answer is static GK on the statute protecting the animals in the passage.

Source: https://sherloc.unodc.org/cld/zh/legislation/ind/the_wildlife_protection_act_1972/chapter_i/article_1-2.html

Q14. Answer: (C) 1952

Explanation: The cheetah was officially declared extinct in India in 1952. The passage refers to the species only as having been absent for decades, so the year must come from outside the passage.

Source: <https://news.yahoo.com/animal-declared-extinct-india-1952-230654142.html>

Q15. Answer: (D) I-A, II-B, III-C, IV-D

Explanation: The Asiatic cheetah (A. j. venaticus) is found in Iran and is rated Critically Endangered by the IUCN. The cheetah species as a whole is rated Vulnerable, with an estimated 6,517 mature individuals in the 2021 assessment.

Source: <https://cms.int/saiga/en/species/acinonyx-jubatus>

Q16. Answer: (B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is NOT the correct explanation of (A)

Explanation: Both statements are true: batches came from Namibia, South Africa and Botswana. The Namibian origin of the first batch is not a reason for the reliance on several countries, so R is true but does not explain A.

Source: <https://wishtv.com/?p=818278>

Q17. Answer: (A) I only

Explanation: Statement I is true (Asiatic cheetah, Iran, Critically Endangered). Statement II is false: the cheetah species is rated Vulnerable on the IUCN Red List.

Source: <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Cheetah>

Q18. Answer: (B) Only two

Explanation: Statements 1 and 3 are incorrect: the extinction was declared in 1952, and the species is rated Vulnerable, not Critically Endangered. Statements 2 and 4 are correct, so the answer is Only two.

Passage 4: Women Auther Awards 2026 and Urmila Pawar

Q19. Answer: (B) 14 October 1956

Explanation: Ambedkar converted to Buddhism at Deekshabhoomi in Nagpur on 14 October 1956; the annual observance is Dhammachakra Pravartan Din. The other options are distractors and are not supported by the source.

Source: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Dhammachakra_Pravartan_Din

Q20. Answer: (C) 1954

Explanation: The Akademi's official website states it was formally inaugurated on 12 March 1954. It was registered as a society under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 on 7 January 1956, which is why 1956 is a distractor.

Q21. Answer: (B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is NOT the correct explanation of (A)

Explanation: Both statements are true, but the Devanagari script does not explain why the book is a translation; the translation relationship rests on Marathi being the original language, not its script. Hence R is true but not the explanation of A.

Source: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Marathi_language

Q22. Answer: (C) I-C, II-D, III-B, IV-A

Explanation: Rushdie won the Booker Prize in 1981 for Midnight's Children; Arundhati Roy won in 1997 for The God of Small Things; Jhabvala won in 1975 for Heat and Dust; William Golding won in 1980 for Rites of Passage.

Source: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Marathi_language

Q24. Answer: (B) Only two

Explanation: Statements 1 and 3 are correct. Statement 2 is wrong because the Booker Prize for Midnight's Children is recorded under 1981 (Booker prize-year page).
