Glaw Lake and Elephant Corridor Orders

Glaw Lake in Arunachal Pradesh has been designated a Ramsar site, the Union Environment Ministry announced on 3 August 2026. Ramsar designation recognises a wetland as being of international importance. The lake is India's 101st Ramsar site and the first in Arunachal Pradesh. The Ministry's press release confirmed the designation. Union Environment Minister Bhupender Yadav said India's Ramsar network had grown from 26 sites in 2014 to 101 sites, describing the designation as a significant milestone for the state.

The lake lies within the Kamlang Tiger Reserve and Wildlife Sanctuary in Lohit district, near the town of Wakro, and is fed by perennial mountain streams. The Mishmi community regards the lake as sacred. The Ministry said the designation would strengthen biodiversity conservation, climate resilience, water security and sustainable livelihoods for communities that depend on the wetland.

Elephant corridors also drew attention this month. On 17 August 2026, the Supreme Court directed the Union Environment Ministry to conduct a fresh nationwide survey of elephant corridors and to report on obstructions within them, in a matter raised by conservationist Prerna Singh Bindra. The Court also asked for a report on the steps taken to prevent such obstructions. The bench, headed by Chief Justice Surya Kant, said states could not justify barriers in corridors by pointing to crop damage, and that no state could block the traditional routes of elephants. The court prohibited the use of fireballs and mashaals, or torches, to drive elephants away from human-dominated areas, and directed state authorities to enforce its directions.

The court's concern follows a 2023 Wildlife Institute of India report that counted 150 elephant corridors across the country, against 88 listed in the 2010 Elephant Task Force report. The report, compiled by the Elephant Cell of the institute and based on ground validation, found that elephant use had increased in 59 corridors and remained stable in 29, while 29 others were being used with decreasing frequency. It also found that 15 corridors were impaired and needed restoration, and that no information was available on the current use of another 18. The East-Central region held the largest number of corridors at 52, followed by the Northeast with 48, the South with 32 and the North with 18.

In late August 2026, Tamil Nadu notified three elephant corridors in the Hosur forest division, in the Cauvery North Wildlife Sanctuary. The notification followed proceedings before the Madras High Court on the identification of corridors in the state. The three corridors are the Jawalagiri-Thaggatti, Jawalagiri-Anchetty and Bilikkal-Jawalagiri corridors. They sit on the trans-Cauvery route used by elephants moving between Tamil Nadu and Karnataka.

India's early-2026 economic data

India's official economic data for early 2026 pointed to steady growth. On 7 January 2026, the National Statistical Office (NSO) released its first advance estimates for 2025-26. The estimates placed real GDP growth for FY26 at 7.4 per cent, compared with 6.5 per cent in FY25. Gross value added (GVA) was estimated to grow 7.3 per cent, with services expanding 9.1 per cent.

The Economic Survey 2025-26 was tabled in Lok Sabha on 29 January 2026 by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman. The Survey put private final consumption expenditure at 61.5 per cent of GDP, the highest share since FY2011-12.

Price data showed a different pattern. Consumer Price Index (CPI) inflation for December 2025 was 1.33 per cent, a three-month high, up from 0.71 per cent in November, according to figures released on 12 January 2026. Food prices fell 2.71 per cent year on year. Headline inflation stayed below the lower tolerance band of the Reserve Bank of India's target for a fourth straight month. Wholesale price inflation was 0.83 per cent in December 2025, released on 14 January 2026, ending a two-month stretch of deflation.

Industrial output also gained pace. The Index of Industrial Production (IIP) rose 6.7 per cent year on year in November 2025, its highest in 25 months, according to the quick estimate released in late December. Manufacturing grew 8.0 per cent and mining 5.4 per cent, while electricity fell 1.5 per cent. Analysts linked the gain partly to GST rate cuts effective from 22 September 2025. The Index of Eight Core Industries rose 3.7 per cent in December 2025, with cement output up 13.5 per cent and steel up 6.9 per cent. Coal output rose 3.6 per cent, while crude oil and natural gas output fell 5.6 and 4.4 per cent. The index stood at 175.7 points, compared with 169.4 a year earlier, and cumulative growth for April to December 2025-26 was 2.6 per cent, provisional. The core sector data were released on 20 January 2026.

On the external front, merchandise exports rose 1.87 per cent year on year to $38.51 billion in December 2025. Imports reached $63.55 billion, leaving a merchandise trade deficit of about $25.04 billion. The trade figures were released on 15 January 2026.

Inflation policy also drew attention. Under the RBI Act, the government sets the inflation target in consultation with the central bank. The current target is 4 per cent, with a tolerance band of 2 to 6 per cent, for the five years from 1 April 2026 to 31 March 2031. The notification is dated 25 March 2026. If inflation stays outside the band for three consecutive quarters, the RBI must submit a report to the government explaining the reasons and remedial action.

Milano Cortina 2026 Winter Olympics: Venues, Medals and Final Day

The Milano Cortina 2026 Winter Olympics opened on 6 February 2026 with a ceremony at the San Siro stadium in Milan. The Games closed on Sunday, 22 February, with a ceremony at the ancient Verona

Arena in the city of Verona. Because the programme was spread across northern Italy rather than concentrated in one place, athletes travelled between several clusters of venues over the 17 days of competition, which ran from 6 to 22 February 2026.

Milan and Cortina d'Ampezzo were the two main clusters of the Games. Milan hosted figure skating and short-track speed skating at the Milano Ice Skating Arena, speed skating at the Milano Ice Park, and ice hockey at the Santagiulia Ice Hockey Arena. Cortina d'Ampezzo hosted the sliding sports at the Cortina Sliding Center, women's alpine skiing at the Tofane Alpine Skiing Center, and curling at the Cortina Curling Olympic Stadium. Men's alpine skiing took place on the Stelvio course at Bormio, a fixture of the World Cup circuit. Freestyle skiing and snowboarding were held at the Livigno Snow Park and the Livigno Aerials and Moguls Park. Ski jumping was staged at Predazzo, the most populated municipality in the Val di Fiemme, and biathlon was contested at the Anterselva Biathlon Arena.

The final medal table was headed by Norway, which won 41 medals, including 18 gold, 12 silver and 11 bronze. The United States was second with 33 medals, made up of 12 gold, 12 silver and nine bronze. The 12 gold medals were a record for the United States at a Winter Games. The Netherlands placed third with 20 medals, including 10 gold, seven silver and three bronze. Italy, the host nation, finished fourth with 30 medals, comprising 10 gold, six silver and 14 bronze. The table therefore ranked Norway, the United States, the Netherlands and Italy in that order.

The Norwegian cross-country skier Johannes Klæbo was the standout individual performer of the Games. He won all six men's cross-country skiing events he entered, taking six gold medals in total. No man had previously won six golds at a single Winter Games, which made the result a piece of Winter Olympic history.

The men's ice hockey final was played on 22 February, the last day of the competition. The United States beat Canada 2-1 in overtime, with Jack Hughes scoring the winning goal in extra time. Canada took the silver medal, and the result gave the United States the men's ice hockey gold at these Games.

On the closing evening, the Olympic flames at the cauldrons in Milan and Cortina d'Ampezzo were extinguished as the Verona ceremony took place. The ceremony marked the formal end of 17 days of competition that had covered mountain, valley and city venues across northern Italy.
