Madhya Pradesh UCC Bill 2026

The Madhya Pradesh Legislative Assembly passed the Uniform Civil Code (UCC) Bill, 2026 on Tuesday, 21 July 2026, by voice vote. The Bill was introduced on 20 July, the first day of the state's monsoon session, and was passed amid protests by Congress MLAs who stayed in the well of the House.

The government tabled the Bill while Congress was pressing for a debate on alleged land purchases linked to Chief Minister Mohan Yadav. Congress MLAs had demanded that the Bill be sent to a Select Committee, and the government rejected that demand. Congress also argued that 27 per cent reservation for Other Backward Classes should be a higher priority than the UCC.

The Bill covers marriage, divorce and inheritance. It prohibits polygamy, makes registration of marriages and divorces compulsory, provides equal inheritance rights for men and women, and requires live-in relationships to be registered with state authorities within one month of cohabitation. Scheduled Tribe communities are exempted from its scope.

Yadav defended the Bill as a step towards gender equality. The Bill requires assent before it can be implemented.

G7 Evian summit and critical minerals

Leaders of the Group of Seven (G7) met at Évian-les-Bains, France, in mid-June 2026, with French President Emmanuel Macron as host. Leaders discussed Russia's war in Ukraine, the situation in the Middle East and global economic imbalances.

On 17 June, the leaders issued a declaration on securing supply chains for critical minerals. The declaration expressed concern about market concentration, arbitrary trade restrictions, non-market policies and economic coercion. Members pledged to work with partners to reduce critical dependencies and to ensure that attempts to weaponise economic dependencies fail.

The declaration launched the G7 Critical Minerals Resilience and Production Alliance, a nonbinding framework supported by a new G7 platform for critical minerals cooperation. The leaders also committed to working towards harmonised ways of tracing where critical minerals come from.

Western Ghats eco-sensitive draft and Kerala's exclusion plea

The Union environment ministry reissued the seventh draft notification for an Ecologically Sensitive Area (ESA) covering the Western Ghats in late July 2026. The draft covers 56,825.7 sq km across six states: Gujarat, Goa, Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Maharashtra and Karnataka. It proposes barring mining, quarrying and sand mining within the ESA, along with new thermal power plants, certain highly polluting industries and large construction projects. Hydel power would be regulated rather than banned, and agriculture and plantations are reported to be unaffected.

The draft is open to public objections for 60 days. The Centre and the six states have not agreed on which villages and areas should be included, a dispute that has continued since earlier drafts. An expert committee set up in 2022 to examine the states' proposals has been given an extension until July 2027.

In September 2026, Kerala's cabinet decided to ask the Centre for the complete exclusion of residential areas and the Cardamom Hill Reserve from the ESA. The state's environment department is to prepare a map of the areas it wants carved out, to be presented to the Union Environment Ministry. The Centre has so far resisted broader exclusions.
